Important figures unavailable

Health Board still lacks budget figures

by Andrew Milne

The local health board is still waiting for its first budget numbers for the Minden and Haliburton hospitals — and it is getting nervous.

The board of Haliburton Highlands Health Services (HHHS) has been responsible for the operation of the hospitals for two months now. Former operator St. Joseph's of Peterborough, however, has contracted to do the facilities' books.

St. Joseph's had agreed to provide the monthly figures by the middle of the following month. However, citing various operational complications, the former parent hospital has so far been unable to do so.

Board member Hugh Nichol said he considers the situation serious, since the fledgling board has no reserves, and therefore little room to move should it get into an unexpected deficit situation.

Said Nichol, "It's the fourteenth of June, and I still can't tell you how we did in April... We are so small, and we have no margin for error."

Board member Ted Wilkes, formerly of St. Joseph's local Community Advisory Committee, (CAC), also said this does not bode well.

Said Wilkes, "I remember we often has this problem at the

Defiant to the end

Despite its fragile appearance it took several attempts before the barn at the corner of Prince Street and Highway 35 yielded to the pull of the wreckers chain. But yield, it finally did, Thursday morning, collapsing in a cloud of dust with splintering timbers over three-quarters of a century old. Even in its demise the familiar landmark remained defiant as a single beam thrust up through the tin roof as a final marker to where the structure once stood. Timbers salvaged from the barn will be used in the construction of a shed.

Stolen goods found in bush

Thanks to an alert member of the public, the Minden detachment of the O.P.P. has seized a large quantity of stolen property.

Donald area resident Stanley Price, last Wednesday, noticed a suspicious set of tire tracks on property he owns. The imprints led off the road and into the bush. Following the trail he discovered what appeared to be a cache of outboard motors, electronic appliances and other items.

Constable Rob Adams of the Minden detachment of the OPP was called to the scene and found that the stockpile included more than $20,000 worth of stolen property.

More research by Adams revealed that three cottages in the Haliburton Lake area had been broken into the night before. It appears that even before the owners of the cottages had discovered the theft, the stolen stolen goods had been recovered.

There is still one piece of the puzzle missing. Constable Adams is continuing his investigation into who stole the goods.

OPP Constable Rob Adams displays the stolen property found stashed in the bush near Donald.

It was just ten years ago yesterday, June 16, 1986 that a tornado left a trail of destruction across the county. Not only did the twister etch its mark upon the face of the Highlands, it left behind an abundance of experiences.

In a special report in this week's edition, Times reporter Misty Bennett went searching for some of those stories and found vivid memories of that day. Her report appears on pages 6 and 7.

Emergency care in MindenClarification leaves decision with the board

by Andrew Milne

Local health board members dealt Friday with a pot-hole on the road to the construction of local hospitals.

In a letter received some months ago, the Ministry of Health (MOH) had recommended to the board, in rather strong language, that the planned facility to be built in Minden reflect the requirements for only a 12 hour ambulatory care service.

Board members however met with MOH representatives Friday in Peterborough, and say the message they were given was that the comments were meant to be taken as recommendations only. Provided they find ways to make it viable, they say, what sites run what hours is still up to the local board.

Said HHHS executive director Foster Loucks, of the meeting with the MOH Friday, "The impression I left the meeting with was that so long as the financial needs were met, we still have the flexibility we want."

The letter read, in part: "The next stage of planning should clearly identify that the space... requirements are based on a 12 hour ambulatory care service."

The letter — the MOH's formal response to the HHHS' 'role study' into use of acute care facilities in the region — is under the letterhead of the MOH's planning and evaluation branch, and bears the signature of regional directors Peter Finkle and Barbara Sulzenko-Laurie.

The board had earlier decided that though the Minden site may only be operated at 12 hours per day in the off season for at least the immediate future, the facilities be made adequate for 24 hour service, looking toward the time it becomes practical to provide such service.

The current Minden hospital's emergency department operates at 24 hours for the summer.

The Haliburton Highlands Health Services (HHHS) board is charged with providing hospital care in the Haliburton Highlands region, and as part of that responsibility, is constructing and renovating facilities in the villages of Haliburton and Minden.

The current plan calls for renovations to the Haliburton Hospital to place the acute care beds and a 24 hour emergency ward at that site, and renovations to the Highland Crest long term care facility in Minden, including the addition of a hospital emergency ward, to take over from the badly cramped and out of date Minden Hospital facility. That ward was the sticking point over which the letter became an issue.

The role study identifies this as a sensible approach primarily for the reason that the cost of facilities for 24 hour service and the cost for 12 hour facilities are "similar in all cases" anyway, and because service utilization in the future is unpredictable, so capital planning should leave the board with some flexibility.

The report also states that, in the long term, with more creative use of nurses in emergency rooms and training of paramedic crews, the board might be able to provide better emergency care, even should the reduced hours remain in place permanently. The report is however also explicit that these measures are necessary to make this viable, and that none of them have been executed yet. The current situation at Minden (the reduced hours) is attributed to financial necessity. Without a pool of local doctors to draw from, providing emergency care in Minden is considerably more expensive.

Good news at medical clinic

The Lions Community Medical Clinic in Minden has announced that Dr. Bennet Wu has signed on at the centre for another year.

"We are certainly pleased Dr. Wu has agreed to be with us for another year," clinic spokesman Tom Gardner said. "We know his patients and others in the area will welcome the news as well."

Gardner also announced that appointments are now being booked for Dr. Judith Smith who will begin practise at the clinic in July. "The clinic has had numerous calls over the past few months inquiring about Dr. Smith. I do not think we'll have any problem filling her appointment book," he said.

In addition to these two full-time physicians at the clinic, Dr. Joseph Mayer and Dr. Maurice Smith are also practising on a part-time basis.

New fire rules place responsibility on the public

by Andrew Milne

New fire regulations from the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) seem to have confused some people, say fire technicians.

That confusion may be leading to additional grass and forest fires.

The MNR announced as part of its cost-cutting measures earlier this year that permits would no longer be required for fires during the forest fire season.

However, there are still regulations controlling when and how material is to be burned.

Says Haliburton MNR fire technician J.D. Bishop, "The release says at the top that permits are no longer required. Then below that there are the regulations about when and how you can burn... People seem to see that first line and they don't read the rest. They figure all bets are off; that they can burn whenever, whatever. So they're setting fires on windy days, or they don't have proper fire fighting equipment handy, all sorts of stupid things."

"It says you have to have the proper fire fighting equipment, and when you have to burn, all of those things. But who's going to know what proper fire fighting equipment is? I'm not sure we know that yet."

Even with the best of intentions, says Bishop, things can go wrong. Standing in a site near Black Lake in

J.D. Bishop surveys the damage caused by a fire in Lutterworth Township.

Lutterworth Township, where a fire burned three hectares of bush, Bishop points to the incinerator where it started. A contractor renovating a cottage had been burning cutoffs in it.

"They had good intentions," he says. "They had rakes and a hose there. And they say when the wind came up they put it out, just to be safe."

The bush fire, however, seems to have started after they'd thought they had extinguished the incinerator — catching in a pile of cutoffs downwind from the incinerator. Sparks may have been blown there from the smouldering fire in the incinerator. The cottagers fought it on their own for a while, but it got away.

Now, inspecting the site a few days after the fire, Bishop is asked by a contractor working nearby to take a look at his incinerator. What he finds is an open mouthed barrel, with a hole in the side, burning cutoffs, around two metres from the forest.

Patch the hole, put a mesh screen on it with holes five millimetres or less, and move it to five metres from the forest, and it can be during the day, he says. Today, he asks workers to put it out, and they comply.

According to Bishop, although it hasn't been a particularly hot summer, recent gypsy moth infestations have left the crown of the forest damaged. That lets more sunlight and wind into the forest, drying out the litter on the forest floor, and making it easier for fires to spread.

Bishop says Haliburton crews have fought or reported around 100 fires this year. Since they've taken on additional territory in the interim, he says, it's hard to say if that's up more from last year than it should be.

"People still have to be careful," he says. "And they are still accountable."

The fire regulations appear below.

No permits...but there are still regulations & fines

Though a fire permit is no longer required in forest fire season, there are still regulations for when and how to burn.

The MNR's regulations permit the burning of piled wood, brush, leaves, or wood by-products without a permit, provided:

- the fire is lit two hours or less before sunset, and put out two hours or more before sunrise,
- the pile is two metres or less in diameter, and less than two metres high,
- the fire is at least two metres from flammable materials,
- tools or water adequate to contain the fire are at the site,
- and a responsible person tends the fire until it is extinguished.

The regulations permit burning of the same in an incinerator, provided:

- the incinerator is enclosed and built from non-combustible material,
- the incinerator is covered by a screen having a mesh size of five millimetres or less,

- the incinerator is at least five metres from any forest or woodland,
- the incinerator is at least two metres from any flammable material,
- and a responsible person monitors the fire until it is out.

Regulations permit the burning of grass or leaf litter on land you lawfully occupy, and permit the granting of permission to burn the same on land you lawfully occupy, without a permit, provided:

- the fire is lit two hours or less before sunset, and put out two hours or more before sunrise,
- the total area to be burned is one hectare or less,
- the flaming edge of the fire is 30 metres or less in length,
- the person tending the fire has tools and water adequate to contain the fire to the site,
- and a responsible person tends the fire until it is out.

Persons failing to comply with these regulations can still be fined.

New board chair sets priorities for the year

by Andrew Milne

The Haliburton Highlands Health Services Board (HHHS) elected a new chair and vice-chair last week.

Hugh Nichol — a Haliburton accountant who has been central to the board's financial planning — was elected chair. Nichol replaced Paul Heffer, who served one year in the position, and stepped down voluntarily.

Sherborne Reeve and former county warden Ross Rabjohn — the board's liaison with county council — was elected vice-chair.

Nichol, in his acceptance speech, identified four areas as his priorities as chair:

- that the board move with all possible speed to get construction of the planned new facilities under way,

- that the board come to a clear understanding with county council with respect to the future of the Hyland Crest site (the site is currently the property of the county),

- that a charitable foundation be incorporated to raise funds for capital projects, and

- that the board achieve a balanced budget.

Financial concerns, said Nichol, will necessarily be central and paramount for the board in its early years, as it struggles to meet service demands on small and sometimes shrinking budgets.

Said Nichol, "We are a brand new organization. We have no reserves. We cannot run deficits... So we're going to have to make some tough decisions about the services we are going to offer, and we're going to have to be very sure we can offer them with the funds we have available."

"We have to provide as good, and as wide a range of services as possible... but we have to do that with a balanced budget. I believe that's critical. I believe we're going to have to do that, to prove ourselves stable and credible."

Nichol also cited a need to continue to be creative in finding ways to deliver services with limited funds, and credited Heffer for opening the board's eyes to those possibilities.

Heffer, who took over the chair after Stuart

Baker had to leave the post due to illness, thanked the board for its assistance through his term of office.

"It's been a learning experience," said Heffer.

Health Services Board chair, Hugh Nichol.

CAC as well... We'd get the numbers so late, and we wouldn't even know there was a problem until it was almost too late to do anything. We'd wind up having to make serious decisions with very little time."

The board's executive director,

Foster Loucks, suggested the board should continue to review the performance of St. Joseph's in providing the information, and that it might have to consider other arrangements for accounting. The board's option to do this is written into its service agreement with St. Joseph's.

Remembering the tornado of ten years ago

Like a giant's finger

by Misty Bennett

Yesterday, June 16, marked the tenth anniversary of the massive tornado that wreaked havoc across the Highlands.

From the air, the track of the twister is clearly visible, like the huge finger of an angry giant dragged across the landscape.

Evidence of the destruction is still visible, if one knows what to look for. In places*, twisted trees lie on their sides, their barren and dead crowns mostly point eastward, indicating the direction of the whirlwind. After a decade, many of the scenes of destruction are slowly disappearing behind new growth. (Interestingly, on the popular wall poster, Peterborough/ Haliburton from Space, the track of the twister is clearly visible across the top of the photo, as the new growth shows as a lighter colour of green.)

Looking back, what is remembered is the terrible destruction caused by this horrendous storm, the people it affected and how they coped in the aftermath of one of the largest, most destructive natural occurrences this county has ever witnessed.

On Monday, June 16, 1986, the twister first touched down at the west end of Brady Lake, north of Highway 118, east of Carnarvon. It was a little before 2:00 p.m. The Dave Helson cottage on Brady Lake was literally torn apart by the force of the storm. At the time the cottage was being converted into a retirement home, as Helson prepared to move permanently into the area.

The tornado touched down again further along the Brady Lake Road, then skipped cross country to Kushog Lake. Although it seemed only to make contact in a small area around Twin Rocks Resort the damage was extensive.

Trees were uprooted and strewn across lawns and at least 12 cottages were destroyed.

ABOVE: The fury of the tornado is evident in the twisted remains of the Helson cottage.

The storm crossed Boshkung Lake and struck the Echo Bay area. Extensive tree damage occurred in this location, with most of the trees uprooted on the point known as Sherwood Forest. Boats were ripped from their moorings and debris littered across the bay and onto the adjacent shoreline. All along the path numerous telephone and electrical wires were brought to the ground by the falling trees.

A lot of damage was experienced in the Beech Lake area as well. It was reported that 12 residences were destroyed, 24 were damaged and one barn was levelled.

The Redner property on Concession Twenty in Stanhope Township, just east of Beech Lake, sustained a direct hit. The barn was levelled, while a mere 50 feet away, the house, where members of the Redner family had sought refuge, sustained minimal damage. A number of storage sheds was destroyed, along with the garage. Strawberry plants, while still retaining their stems and leaves were completely stripped of their berries, and the newly planted potatoes were sheared off at ground level by the force of the wind.

The storm also struck the other side of West Guilford. Camp Towhee, on the shore of Hurricane Lake, sustained considerable destruction in the face of the tornado. Six of the camp buildings were completely destroyed with all others damaged. The maintenance team of Cecil and Yvonne Penney was at the camp when the storm hit, but managed to escape unharmed.

Across the lake, Camp White Pine sustained minimal damage.

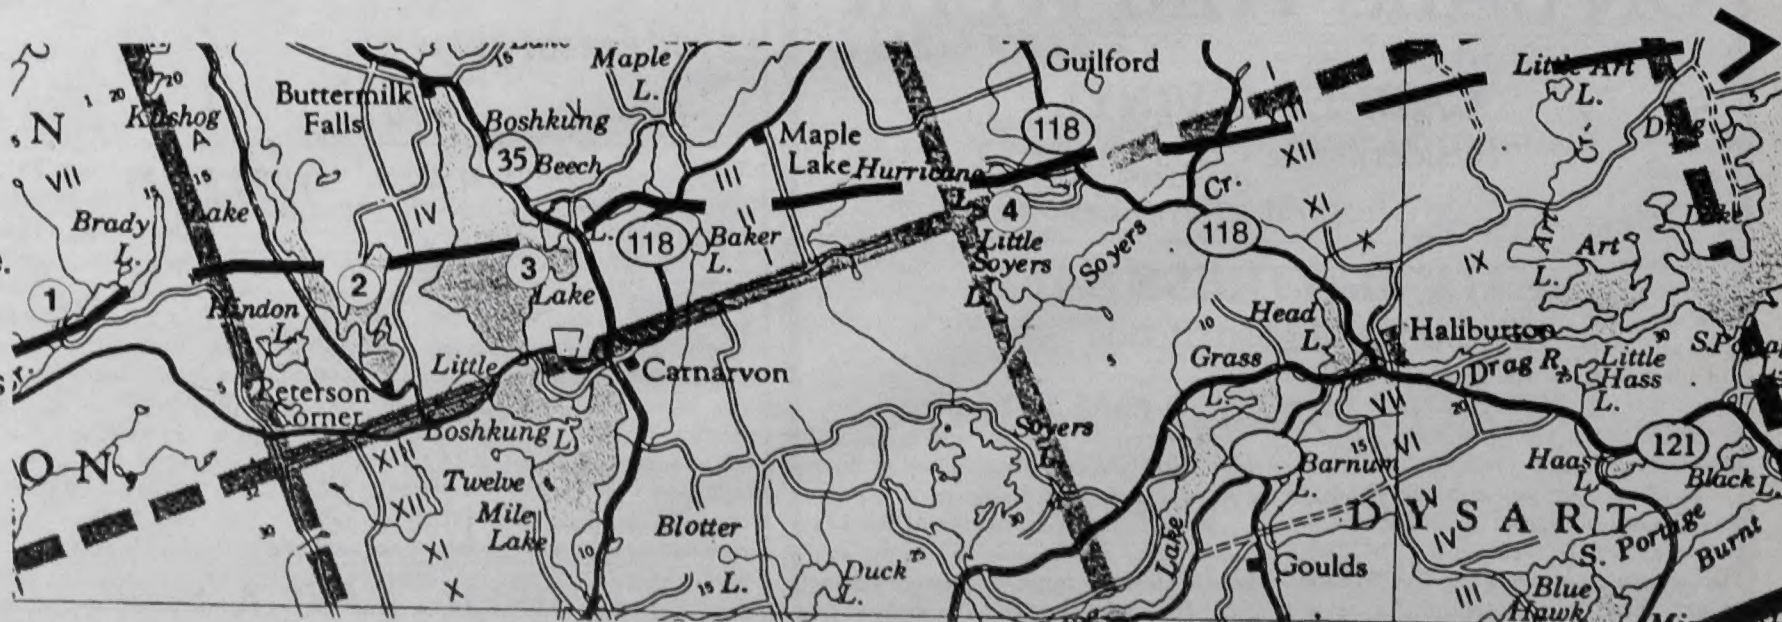

The storm carried on, crashing through the bush to Drag Lake and beyond. Finally, its fury spent, the tornado became nothing more than a severe thunderstorm, as it disappeared to the east.

Honeymoon interrupted

Dave Helson, a Metro Toronto policeman, was in the process of converting his Brady Lake cottage into a retirement home. The cottage, at the western tip of the lake had been raised onto a foundation the year before and a deck added; the structure was well on its way to becoming a home.

Approximate path of the tornado is indicated by the dotted line.

1. the Helson cottage;
2. Twin Rocks Resort;
3. Echo Bay;
4. Camp Towhee

The Helson cottage was one of the first to feel the impact of the storm. With a force that is hard to imagine, the building was turned into a pile of twisted debris. Very little was salvageable from the interior and nothing at all was recoverable from the structure. Helson lost many personal items: knick-knacks and various other items that he had been storing at the cottage. He did salvage an old desk, which he has since had refinished. Helson also managed to save his new airtight wood stove, which at the time wasn't installed.

Helson wasn't there when the tornado struck and for that he considers himself very lucky. "It was my weekend off. Normally I would have been up here," he re-morning to assess the damage, and assured Helson that everything would be covered. Reassured, he picked out his new home from the Viceroy Homes catalogue as soon as they had confirmation from the insurance company. Six weeks later, to the day, he had the insurance cheque in hand.

"It's one of those things. Fortunately no one was hurt. We decided that we weren't going to sit around and cry about it. I guess we did," he admitted, "when we first saw it, but we knew we'd get right back and rebuild."

The new home was erected on the same site, using the one thing the torondo hadn't damaged, the cement pad.

Ironically Helson's cottage was the only structure in the area to be destroyed. It was also one of the few buildings in the area which was unoccupied. One neighbour lost a couple of shingles while another lost a corner off his cottage roof.

Helson admitted that these days storms do tend

"Then I saw this great big funnel coming across the lake, sucking up water, and I knew it was going to be bad," said Penney.

The Penneys got down on the floor and held onto the legs of the workbench and waited for the storm to pass. They looked up in time to witness one of the nearby buildings lift two feet off the ground, start to shake in mid-air and then disappear. This building housed the program office, which has since been replaced.

Penney believes the storm lasted one and a half to two minutes, at most. When he finally looked out the window he couldn't believe his eyes. Buildings had disappeared leaving only piles of rubble behind. Trees were scattered everywhere.

It took the Penneys nearly two hours to traverse the one mile stretch of road to the highway. The driveway was clogged with downed trees.

"Ministry of Natural Resources personnel and township with a crew of 28 men, worked for two days to get the road cleared," said Penney.

The damage to the camp was horrendous. The director's cabin had been picked up and moved from its six feet high cement blocks. It came to rest 40 feet closer to the lake. Five other camp buildings were damaged beyond repair. The pump house was completely flipped over and was perched on its roof. The office building had shifted nine inches and every wall in the camp's huge barn had moved three inches.

"It's a miracle that no one else was here and that there were no kids," said Penney. Had there been visitors at the camp, they most certainly would have been in the buildings that were most severely damaged.

"It took us a whole year to get the camp back in shape," said Penney. Contractors were called in and the clean-up began. All of the rubble was cleared and the camp was slowly put back together.

The tornado didn't dampen the spirits of the campers or the counsellors. They held summer programs at Camp Kandalore that year.

The rebuilt Camp Towhee re-opened in 1987.

Mr. Penney has not let the tornado affect the way he views storms. He said he doesn't let the storms get to him.

Mrs. Penney however, still has vivid memories that colours the way she thinks about the weather.

"When the wind starts up here, I leave. I'm not sticking around for another one."

Ten years after the savage tornado that scarred Haliburton County, the residents seem to have dealt with the devastation and many have re-built their homes and cottages. However, for many, the memory of the storm and the fury it unleashed, will remain for a lifetime.

The pile of rubble above is what was left of the Camp Towhee activity hall. Cecil and Yvonne Penney, right stand in front of the building which has since replaced called last week. He had remained in Toronto that weekend for his nephew's wedding and an accident investigation training course.

Helson's nephew and bride had intended to celebrate their honeymoon at another Brady Lake cottage. The couple remained in Toronto for the weekend and then drove to the Highlands Monday afternoon. As they followed the access road around the lake they were met with the destruction of the storm. Luckily, the cottage where they were staying was a few lots east of the path of the storm and it had not been damaged.

Helson received calls from the local police about the damage sustained at the cottage, but there was a misunderstanding regarding the name of the owner. They understood it was the 'Nelson place', but someone had mispronounced the name," said Helson.

"My two daughters and I came up Tuesday morning. We had to travel on the back road as the usual route was blocked by downed trees," he said.

The insurance adjusters were on the scene Tuesday to make him a little more nervous than they used to.

"I enjoyed thunderstorms when we were here. We would sit and watch them down the lake but they're getting too fierce now," he commented.

Building lifted off the ground

Camp Towhee on the north shore of Hurricane Lake suffered extreme damage, with six of buildings being destroyed and all other structures in the camp complex damaged.

Cecil and Yvonne Penney were at the camp, preparing for the influx of campers expected to arrive in a week's time, when the storm hit.

"We had just finished eating lunch and I was making a table for the dining hall when the wind started to blow, and it started to rain," said Cecil Penney.

According to Mr. Penney the sky kept getting darker and darker. Mrs. Penney had been working in the office, and had run up to the workshop minutes before the storm hit.

Tornado safety tips

The following tornado safety procedures are provided by Environment Canada

Before a tornado

■ Have an emergency kit on hand. Include items such as a flashlight, battery-operated radio, extra batteries, food and water, clothing, blankets, first aid kit and tools for emergency repair jobs.

■ Be prepared! Designate a shelter area in your home.

■ Make sure you and everybody in your household know the difference between a "severe weather watch" and a "severe weather warning." A "watch" means there is a potential for severe weather: be on the lookout. A "warning" means severe weather is occurring; take precautions.

■ Have a plan for members of your household to stay in touch. Severe weather often strikes during the day when families are at work or school. Pick a friend or relative to serve as the "family contact."

During a tornado

■ Watch the weather and monitor the television and radio stations that broadcast severe weather bulletins.

■ At home, go directly to the basement. Take cover under a sturdy workbench, desk or table to protect yourself from flying debris. Use your arms to protect your head.

■ If you don't have a basement, take shelter in a small inner room or hallway. Bathrooms and closets are also good places. Again, protect your head. Stay clear of windows, doors and outside walls.

■ In an apartment or office tower, go to an inner hallway or room, preferably on the lower floors or in the basement. (The same rule applies in schools.) Remember stay away from windows and don't use the elevators.

■ Don't get caught in a car or mobile home. More than 50% of all tornado deaths occur in mobile homes. Take shelter elsewhere such as a building with a strong foundation. If no shelter is available, crouch down in a ditch away from the vehicle or mobile home. Protect your head with your hands.

■ Avoid buildings with freestanding roofs such as gymnasiums, churches and auditoriums. They're more likely to collapse if struck by a tornado. If you're caught in one of these buildings, seek shelter under a sturdy structure like a table. Don't take refuge in a parked car.

■ Never try to outrun a tornado, it is much too fast and rarely moves in a straight line. Get out of the car and take cover in a low-lying area.

■ Watch for flying debris. Even small objects such as sticks and straw can become lethal missiles when driven by a tornado's winds.

The force of the wind shifted buildings off their cement piers.

Moving from planning to doing

The new chair of the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Board, Hugh Nichol, has carved out an ambitious program for his term in office. In his opening address to the board on Friday he laid out four priorities with which he feels the board must deal in the immediate future. They include: starting capital projects as soon as possible; establishing an understanding with county council regarding the future of Hyland Crest; creating a charitable foundation to begin fund raising; and achieving a balanced budget.

It's a tall order, but one that reflects the reality of the situation facing the fledgling board. Just recently the health body was formally incorporated and took over ownership of the two hospitals in Minden and Haliburton. Since its inception two years ago, the board has created the infrastructure required to allow it to operate in an orderly fashion. Over the past five years a number of studies have identified the needs of the community and how those needs might best be met. The tools to take charge and design a health care system that serves the rural community are in place and, as the new chairman pointed out, the board's credibility is on the line.

However, much to the dismay of some board members, there are still elements, mostly beyond the board's control, which frustrate or delay its progress. The board has what it believes is a solid mandate to proceed and has enunciated its vision of the future, but is still receiving confusing messages from a number of sources. A recent letter from the Ministry of Health, for example, left board members wondering if they are in fact masters of their own destiny, within, of course, the financial limits imposed from Queen's Park. That issue seems to have been clarified.

Likewise, the issue of the governance of Hyland Crest was muddled earlier this year when the county contracted with an outside firm to manage the facility. Bringing the home under the umbrella of the board is an important part of the integrated health care system. It also represents a vital piece of the economy of scale required to make the board a viable entity.

The lack of clear information about the past financial histories of the two hospitals is also a troubling matter. As Nichol pointed out, without reserves, and we might add, years of experience managing a health care system, the board needs all the information it can muster to guide its decisions. Planning without this information is like working without a net, which in this economic climate could prove to be disastrous.

The list of priorities outlined by the incoming chair reflects a new phase in the board's responsibilities. It is moving from a planning body to one that will use the details developed in those plans to generate actions. Without the support of all the players, including those who hold key information and decision making powers, the board will find it difficult to help the new chair reach the objectives he has so clearly set for himself and his fellow members.

Committee gives thumbs up to economic growth

There is a strong interest in economic growth for Minden and the surrounding area.

That was evident in the comments which came out of a meeting held Wednesday evening, June 12, at the Minden Community Centre. The meeting was called to examine the options open to the members of the business sector to stimulate economic growth. The gathering was called by an ad hoc group of citizens led by Linda Kernohan. Working with the municipal council and several interested members of the community, she has been attempting to encourage discussion about the future of the village. Key to that future is the economic well-being of the area.

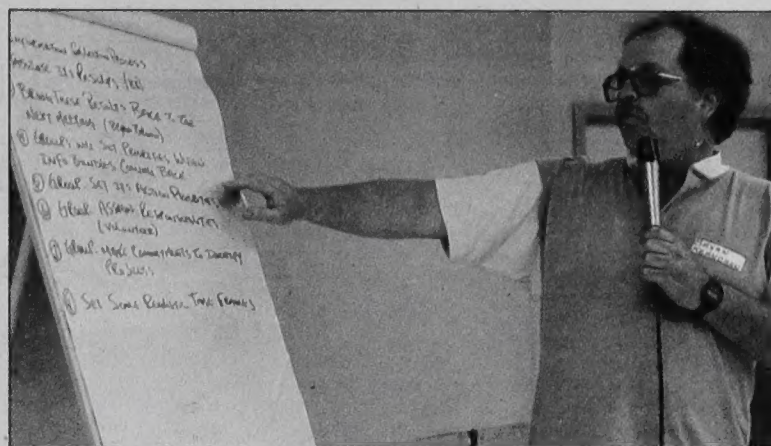

Brian Kernohan served as facilitator for the evening. (Bryan Brown of the Haliburton County Development Corporation had been asked to chair the meeting, but illness prevented his attendance.) The Chamber of Commerce was the host.

Kernohan said the committee identified seven goals for an economic development effort. They included: sustaining and enhancing existing businesses; developing and attracting new business; developing new business opportunities; having achieved these things, communicating to potential investors about Minden's improved business climate; marketing the Minden area as a premier location/destination for tourism investment; identifying and overcoming barriers to investment; and helping the Minden area to create an infrastructure to seize opportunities as they arise.

The moderator pointed out that now more than ever before, the community must take responsibility for its own future. "We can no longer rely on the federal or provincial government to make things happen for us. The reality is: the future is our responsibility."

"We don't have the answers, but we do have some questions for you," Kernohan said. He then asked the 50 participants to break into smaller groups and attempt to answer the following questions:

■ What is needed to ensure retention or maintenance of existing services and local business and investment?

Bryan Kernohan was the facilitator for the economic development meeting Wednesday in Minden.

■ What needs to be done to ensure the development of new services and business opportunities from/for the local area?

■ What needs to be done to attract new services and business/investment to the local area?

After the groups had some time to consider what might be done to deal with each of these questions, the following suggestions, presented in no particular order, were generated from the discussion groups.

• Minden is a beautiful village. We need to take greater pride in what we have here.

• This community has excellent sewer and water services and those facts should be promoted in any effort to attract investment.

• There is plenty of room for expansion and in comparison with southern Ontario, the price of land is low.

• We have an excellent education system.

• New businesses should be made to feel welcome and their investment appreciated.

• The business community needs standardization of business hours and more Sunday and off-hour openings.

• Efforts should be made to protect the services we have in the community, by ensuring that transients obtain the necessary licensing.

• Installation stop lights on the by-pass might result in more people stopping at local shops.

• Service clubs should work together on major projects.

• "Sell" the lifestyle of the area.

• The community should have events that bring in large crowds for longer periods of time.

• Better promotion and utilization of such amenities as the Wild Water Preserve.

• Co-ordination of events, perhaps by a paid employee.

• An industrial/commercial development area, in a park-like setting, is needed.

• Economic development coordinator should be hired.

• Every effort should be made to retain the services we now have, (with specific reference to MNR, OPP, Ontario Hydro and medical).

• Improved parking in the downtown area.

• Merchants must make greater efforts to improve the way their buildings look.

• Improved training for employees.

• The business community should have one voice, rather than the division between the downtown (BIA) and other businesses.

• Development of Pike's Peak as an attraction should be explored.

• Development of a theme for the community based on historical, arts and crafts or natural history.

With these comments noted, Kernohan said the next step is to place them in priority and then develop plans through which the ideas could be implemented. He asked those in attendance to return in two weeks, on June 26, to carry the process one step farther. "We have the ideas and the interest of the people," he said after the meeting, "Now we have to find some way of putting those ideas into action." Kernohan urged those in attendance to invite a business neighbour to be a part of the process.

The meeting will be held at the community centre, beginning at 7 p.m.

Shark attack

If you had to choose the most maligned species of the twentieth century, would you pick:

- (a) cockroaches
- (b) sharks
- (c) lawyers

Cockroaches are out. They're just doing their job, cleaning up messes we slob human leave behind. Lawyer's don't qualify either. They deserve all the malignity we can heap on their weaselly little heads.

I would give the nod to sharks. They have never enjoyed a good press. Ever since man figured out how to put a barb on a hook, sharks have been hauled out of the sea and killed — sometimes for their livers, sometimes for their oil. Mostly just because they were sharks.

Not just hooks either. Sharks are routinely shot, netted, poisoned — even dynamited. In an average week, American "sportsmen" haul close to half a million pounds of shark from the sea.

And it's a one-sided battle. In that same average week, fewer than two people are attacked by sharks anywhere in the world.

We still hate 'em with a passion.

A lot of the blame for this rampant sharkophobia can be laid at the feet of Peter Benchley. He's the guy who wrote Jaws, the book about a monster Great White Shark that was subsequently made into a monster movie. What did we learn from Jaws? That sharks are malevolent, almost indestructible killers with an insatiable appetite for human flesh. "An eating machine" in Richard Dreyfus' memorable words.

Well, hardly. Ninety percent of the shark species in the sea wouldn't bite you if you lathered your foot in mayonnaise and dangled it in front of their snouts.

As for the other ten percent, well they might take a chomp out of you, but you might win next week's 649 and/or get hit on the head by a meteorite. The chances are about the same.

Mind you, when they do get a fit of the munchies, many sharks aren't fussy.

Biologists dissecting the gut of one Great White found the hindquarters of a pig, the front half of a dog, about 300 pounds of horse meat, eight legs of mutton — and one car battery.

Poor old sharks. They don't even get any respect under the waves. A few years back there was a story from one of the American Marine World aquariums about a group of dolphins that shared a tank with a 12 foot shark.

They co-existed peacefully for many months, until one of the female dolphins was about to give birth. Whereupon the rest of the dolphins lined up at one end of the tank then raced through the water, one at a time, smashing into the shark with their beaks.

The shark lasted about five minutes. When the keepers hauled its carcass out of the tank, they could find no marks at all on the outside of the shark.

An autopsy revealed all the shark's internal organs had been mashed to a pulp.

But dolphin gangs are the least of a shark's problems. It's humans who really do a job on them. Fishermen kill them because they're competition. Resort owners kill them because they frighten tourists. Sport fishermen kill them because it makes them feel macho I suppose. You'll hear lots of kind words about hump-back whales and bottle-nosed porpoises and harp seals, but not sharks. The irony is, sharks aren't even close to being the bitingest animal on the planet. You've got a better chance of getting bitten by a Pekinese than a shark.

Or by a rat. Rats bite lots more humans than sharks do. Why each year more than 300 people are bitten by rats in New York city alone.

Mind you, each year more than 1500 New Yorkers suffer bites from an even more exotic species.

Other New Yorkers. Two-legged ones.

Which tells you which species on this planet is truly the most dangerous one.

Shoppers do not need to travel to New York City to visit Madison Avenue; its is right here, just south of Kinmount. Madison Avenue is the name of the new flea market and vendor's area which opened just last month. Karen Buzzell, Sandy and Al Carrier are the three organizers ready to greet shoppers.

Rhonda Francis was the winner of the May edition of the Minden Lions Club Luxury Draw. Her prize, $1000 worth of IGA grocery vouchers, was presented last week by Minden store manager Dave Dollo. Also on hand for the presentation were draw co-chairmen, George Moulton, left and Maurice Boyd, right.

Batting For Kids

8th annual Co-Ed Softball Tourney set for Canada Day Weekend

The eighth annual Batting for Kids Co-Ed Softball Tournament at Coboconk and Burnt River is set for the Canada Day weekend.

The event has drawn as many as 84 teams into the area for the competition. Last year 60 teams participated, raising $5,000 for Ronald McDonald House. Children's charities are always the beneficiaries of this fund-raising.

Tracy Bradimore, one of the tournament organizers, said she is hoping for at least 60 teams this year. She adds that the organizing committee is prepared to accommodate all teams that sign up before the June 21 deadline for registration.

Depending on the number of teams, the action will start at 8 or 9 a.m. on each of the three days.

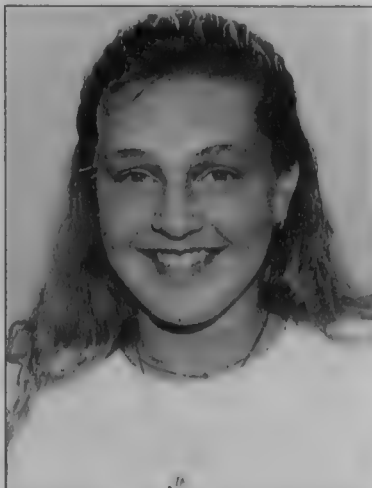

Entertainment has been planned for the Saturday and Sunday evenings. A live band will perform in the tent at the Coboconk Legion Park Saturday evening and the following night, Yuk Yuk's Comedy Club, features comedians Wayne Flemming, David Merry and Larry Horowitz. Both of those events are scheduled to start at 8 p.m.

The event will feature a home run contest.

Prizes are sponsored by Labatt Brewery. A beer tent will be open throughout the weekend.

Easton Sporting Equipment will have a display at the event as well.

To register a team for the eighth annual Batting For Kids Tournament, contact Pat Russell at 454-8717 or Tracy Bradimore at 454-9507.

EVERYTHING LOST: Fire destroyed the home of Grant and Byrl Morrison on the Deep Bay Road near Moore Falls. Laxton volunteer fire fighters responded to the call at about 1 a.m. Friday, June 7. The house was completely engulfed when the fire fighters arrived, but the garage, which was only about 30 feet from the house, was saved. The Morrisons lost everything in the fire. They are renting an apartment in Norland until a new house is built.

Sun shines on curlers' golf tourney

by: Dave McAdam

Despite the predictions of the gurus at the Ministry of the Environment Old Sol again decided to shine down upon the Minden Seniors Curling Club's Spring Golf Tournament on Tuesday June 11th. Seventy-four golfers took to the fairways of The Beaverbrook, driving, chipping and putting for all we had. Some of us would like to think we are Baldings but really, that's what is happening on top of our heads. Some of us, the duffers like yours truly, are trying to determine if a hook is the same as an out turn and a slice the same as an in turn.

Regardless, the day proved great and Gord Arthur, with his committee of Muriel and Jack Harrington, Doreen Spencley and their helpers, organized a great day of fun and competition.

It started at about 10:00 a.m. when the first team teed off playing under rules of "Best Ball" and most teams played all nine holes and some continued onto the tenth where the strokes, gimmees and duffs were rehashed over long cooling glasses of freshie.

Meanwhile back at the curling club a number of backyard gourmets were preparing hamburgers and hot dogs on several barbecues set up outside the front entrance. These were served with the usual condiments along with delicious salads. Finally light cake, ice cream and coffee topped off the golfers appetites.

Door prizes of watches, sweatshirts, golf towels, golf balls and dinner wines donated by a number of our generous members were won by a number of lucky persons and when it came time to present the golfing accolades, the following teams and golfers proved by some low scores, they had the right skills for the game.

In appreciation

The ice is long gone from the fairgrounds, however the Kinsmen Club hasn't forgotten the contribution made by Keaney Chrysler to the Ice Car Racing season. Mike Keaney, left, was presented with a plaque expressing the club's appreciation for his donation of a vehicle for the organization's medical crew. The vehicle was track-side throughout the racing season just in case the services of the first aid attendants were needed. Jim Carrell made the presentation on behalf of the Kinsmen of Minden.

TSW waterway report

The Haliburton area lakes rose one percent from a week ago due to the continuing wet weather. At 96.3%, these lakes are somewhat above their 20 year average.

The Kawartha lakes are still experiencing a small surplus as well, due to the rain. In some areas up to 70 mm of rain fell. Navigation on the canal continues, although there is not a lot of room to absorb any heavy precipitation. Any substantial rainfall could threaten the "through-boating" again.

Flows of the Gull, Burnt and other tributaries are near their long-term June averages.

The usual time to draw upon Haliburton water to replace evaporation is about mid-June. It appears this water will not be needed as early this year.

BACK STAGE: Performers await their turn in the spotlight.

Primary Music Night at Ridgewood Public School

Nearly 375 people crammed the gymnasium at Ridgewood Public School in Coboconk last Tuesday evening for the school's Primary Music Night. The theme for this year's event was Elephants, Clowns and Circus Sounds.

All of the primary students, from Senior Kindergarten to Grade 3, as well as four Grade 4 students participated in the gala event. A dozen teachers took part in the organization of the Primary Music Night.

"They worked very hard," said Lisa Hartford, one of the teachers who helped with the organization. "They rehearsed for two weeks."

BACK-UP GROUP: When they weren't on stage, most of the performers doubled as back-up singers for the on-stage troupe.

UNDER THE BIG TOP: Elephants, Clowns and Circus Sounds was the theme of this year's Primary Music Night at Ridgewood Public School.

Junior Birdsmen take to the air at Stanhope

by Misty Bennett

Questionable weather did little to discourage seasoned pilots and Young Eagles alike June 8, as Stanhope Airport hosted the Young Eagle Program. This is the third year the Experimental Aircraft Association has held the event at the local airport.

"The way things looked Saturday morning, I thought we'd have to cancel tomorrow," said Mike Carey, airport manager.

The bad weather held off for the weekend, however, and the youngsters were out in full force to experience the joy of flight.

Five pilots volunteered their time to take 161 eager young flyers up. For many, it was their first flight in a light aircraft.

To date 436 children have participated in the program at the Stanhope Airport over the three years.

The children received a briefing on the ground followed by a 15-20 minute plane ride. The youngsters were presented with an Eagle Flight Certificate after the experience. The certificate bears the child's name, the date, the location of the flight, the aircraft's identification in and the pilot's signature.

"It's really neat when the kids enjoy it so much," said pilot Bob Chambers.

Lindsay Doucet was one of the youngsters who took advantage of the free flights. This 11 year-old admitted it was fun. "I saw a lot of lakes and some houses. They looked like toys," she said.

Although Doucet said she enjoyed the ride, she said she'd likely just remain a passenger instead of a pilot.

Ashley and Randy Bland came from Brampton for the Saturday morning flight. The Blands cottage in the area and were informed by the children's grandmother that the flights would be on. The Bland family made the special trip so that the boys, aged 10 and five, could experience their first airplane ride.

Pilot Bob Chambers helps a Young Eagle out of the plane during the free flights for youngsters at the Stanhope Airport. This is the third year for the program.

Caution issued for digital cellular phone users with pacemakers

Recent findings on the effects of digital cellular phones on pacemakers have raised concern among some Canadians. There has been some experimental data suggesting that close contact between a digital cellular phone and a pacemaker can cause the speed of the pacemaker to increase or slow.

The Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario advises that the risk to pacemaker recipients can be significantly reduced if simple precautions are taken. These include:

- don't use the phone on the same side as your pacemaker.

- don't carry your phone in your breast pocket or on your belt.
- hold the cellular phone at least six inches away from your pacemaker unit.
- if, while using your cellular phone, you begin to feel faint or dizzy, immediately turn off your phone.
- if you suspect that your pacemaker has been affected by contact with a digital cellular phone, immediately contact your personal physician.

To date there is no evidence that analog cellular phones affect the functioning of pacemakers.

Each year approximately 10,000 pacemakers are inserted in Canada. It has been estimated that 100,000 Canadians are living with implanted pacemakers.

Canadians who have questions concerning their pacemaker should speak to their physicians. General medical and lifestyle information is available from the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario. Call the 'hotline' number at 1-800-360-1557.

Road work 'de-bumps' 35

by Misty Bennett

Traffic delays on Highway 35 last week were a result of reconstruction work.

Employees from Fowler Construction Company were removing five frost heaves from Highway 35. Four of those were located on the section of highway that borders the town of Minden. The other reconstruction was taking place near Carnarvon.

Fowler Construction, based in Bracebridge, had two excavating teams and one paving crew working on the projects. It is hoped this corrective measure will eliminate a number of rough spots along Highway 35.

The work involved a number of steps: the Tarmac surface was peeled off; the soil beneath it,

Fowler Construction road crews were working on Highway 35 the past two weeks removing stretches of frost damaged roadway..

composed mainly of water-retaining clay, was removed; sub-drains (small, perforated drains which allow water to flow through them) were then installed; new granular material was then used to cover the drains and compacted; and finally the area was repaved.

Earlier in the week, supervisor Doug Buchanan expected to have the gaps in the highway paved by Friday. True to his word, the barriers were down late Friday afternoon and the weekend traffic flowed through uninterrupted.

Toronto Junior Board of Trade

Volunteer effort builds new activity centre at Kinark

by Misty Bennett

The pounding of hammers and screaming of electric saws shattered the silence of the Highlands wilderness last weekend (June 8-9).

The Kinark Outdoor Centre was the site of all this commotion, as the Toronto Junior Board of Trade went to work on constructing the Centre's new activity building. When complete the building will be a two floor, 3600 square foot complex.

"The foundation was laid Wednesday, the walls were up Thursday and the trusses, Friday. By the end of the weekend we hope to have the windows in and the roof and shingles on," says committee chairman Jonathan Sprawson.

The Toronto Junior Board of Trade is an organization composed mainly of young professionals who, once a year, donate their time and energy to various community projects.

"All the people who are here are from Toronto and area. They're accountants and business people, although there are a couple of contractors to help us out," says Sprawson.

The "Spring Build" is an annual event. The members of the Toronto Junior Board of Trade assist a charitable children's camp in the building of a facility. The projects are selected so that most of the work can be completed in a weekend.

All the food for the workers was donated and many of the building supplies were made available at discounted prices.

Camps are chosen by the Toronto Junior Board of Toronto Junior Board of Trade volunteers, hard at work on the Kinark Outdoor Centre's new activity building.

Trade committee on which there is 14 members. The organization often gets assistance from the Ontario Camping Association who may know of a needy camp. Six years ago the Board of Trade constructed a building for Kinark, so it already knew the status of this local outdoors centre.

Saturday morning there were about 50 people on the site. Ultimately Sprawson is expecting about 70 workers. "Usually there are a lot more people. I think the rain may be keeping some people away, but they should arrive later this morning."

The group expects to accomplish in two days, what a regular framing crew would take two weeks to complete.

Last year the same organization built a nurse's centre at Camp Wanakita.

Three score & thirty

Al Stott celebrated his 90th birthday in style last week, amid family and friends at Staunworth Terrace. Between 60 and 70 friends were expected for the celebration. Stott was joined by his niece Barbara Fortier, right, of Quebec and granddaughter Julie Horvath of Dundas. Stott is the incumbent Lions Club President for next year.

Winnifred and Judy baked lots of delicious goodies

Residents' Council was held on Monday June 10. There was a good turn out and the residents took part in a very good discussion for the good of the Council.

Winnifred Barnum and Judy Stevenson baked some delicious goodies on Tuesday morning which were enjoyed by the Craft group later in the afternoon.

The Smilers Club went to Haliburton Look-Out for a little trip on the bus Wednesday morning. The ice cream bars were extra special. Our friend Janet was lucky! She didn't get rained on this time.

We all yelled BINGO on Wednesday afternoon or at least we tried.

Music with the Grandfathers was enjoyed in the evening.

Lochlin Ladies brought in a sumptuous lunch for tea on Thursday, and Northern Jam entertained us royally on Friday at Happy Hour.

Other programs we enjoyed this week were: reading, quiet time and of course keep fit. We finally got our garden planted and the plants are up.

Thanks to all the wonderful volunteers who help with our programs.

I am happy that fathers get to celebrate on this Sunday. We deserve it!

Help the birds

-Submitted-

Summer is a time when beautiful song birds fly into windows. Upon impact the birds often lie dazed and confused on the ground, becoming prey for predators.

The Fatal Light Awareness Program (FLAP) has advice on how to handle these fragile creatures after such an injury. A stunned bird should be carefully picked up and placed upright to aid respiration. You may make a small nest or donut out of tissue for the bird to sit in. By putting the bird and nest into a paper bag the bird can reorient itself without distraction.

Do not handle the bird any more than necessary. When the bird is alert and ready to fly, release it in a wooded area.

If you would like any further information or would like to contact FLAP, please call us at the Information Centre.

Have you a question? We can help, contact your Haliburton County Information Centre Inc.

In Minden, Mondays only, the Centre is located in the Court House Building, adjacent to the Anson, Hindon and Minden Municipal Office. Phone (705) 286-4100. 10:00 am - 12:00 pm, 1:00 pm - 4:00 pm. The Haliburton office in the Drag River Building on Maple Avenue is open the same hours, Monday to Friday. Call 457-2733

AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Members of Council, Inhabitants and Ratepayers of the Corporation of the Townships of Anson, Hindon & Minden:

I have audited the consolidated balance sheet of the Corporation of the Townships of Anson, Hindon & Minden as at 31st December 1995 and the consolidated statement of operations for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the townships' management. My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audit.

I conducted my audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that I plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In my opinion, these consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Corporation of the Townships of Anson, Hindon & Minden as at 31st December 1995 and the results of its operations for the year then ended in accordance with the accounting principles disclosed in note 1 to the financial statements.

On a beautiful spring day, 4 high-school boys decided to spend the morning fishing instead of attending school. Arriving at school after lunch, they were confronted by their English teacher. One of the boys explained that they were late because of a flat tire. To their relief, the teacher was very understanding. "I'm sorry about your bad luck, but you did miss a test this morning. Take seats apart from each other and get out a pencil and paper". The boys did as they were told. "First question" asked the teacher, "which tire?"

Allergies:

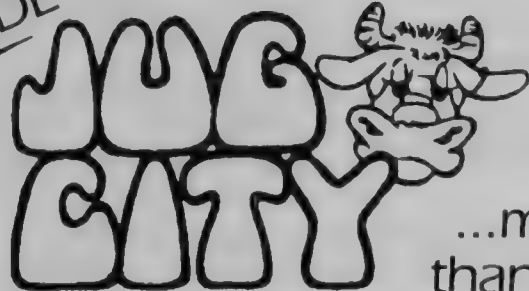

Since allergies can develop at any age, many people don't even realize they have them. Very often, symptoms are misinterpreted as either the cold or the flu. Discovering that you have an allergy is the first step to finding relief. There are plenty of products, both prescription and over-the-counter, that can help alleviate your symptoms and let you enjoy life again.

Knowing that you have an allergy is difficult. Symptoms vary greatly. Your skin may itch, or you might develop a rash or hives. Congestion, sneezing, coughing, dry throat, dizziness and reoccurring ear, chest and throat infections are also indications as are watery, itchy and blurry eyes.

For some people, allergies manifest through the nervous system; migraines, fatigue, inability to concentrate, anxiety and forgetfulness are common complaints. In all cases, consult with your Doctor. You may be recommended to an allergist eventually.

ADVERTISING DEADLINE--THURSDAY AT NOON

IN MEMORIAM

GREER: Byard and Myrtle - In loving memory of our dear Mom and Dad, Grandma, Grandpa or Nanny and Poppy who passed away June 23, 1978 and June 20, 1994.

It's been many years since
We've been apart,
But we all want you to know
You're still with us in our hearts.
It seems like only yesterday
We were together and living on the farm,
What with running through the backfields
Or playing at the barn.
Tanning in the front yard,
Playing baseball in the back
We all know how hard it was
For you two to keep track.
And you Mom, with your garden
Your flowers and your hummingbirds
And you Dad with your haying,
Your horses and cattle herds,
There really didn't seem to be
A lot of time for small talk afterwards.
You both had a hard job to do
What with raising us eight kids,
But we always knew what you expected
And we always understood.
For we respected you
For your actions and loving words.
You always helped us solve our problems
Babies us when we were sick
Then helped us raise our children,
Babysat and gave a loving word.
You seemed to always be there
No matter what occurred.
Mom and Dad we want you to know
That you both did a great job
As long as you both did live.
For the truth and values
That you taught us
We now pass to your grandkids.
How vivid are the memories
That we hold so dear.
It seems like its only been days
But really, it's been years.
We remember you with both joy and tears
For the love we all shared so dear.
Thank God for memories
For to us you will always be here!
Loving memories always,
Love, your sons, daughters,
sons-in-law, daughters-in-law and grandchildren.

ROGERS, Helen (Francis) who passed away June 18, 1995.
We think of you in silence
We often speak your name;
But all we have are memories
And your picture in a frame.
Each morning when we awake,
We know that you are gone;
No one knows the heartaches
As we try to carry on.
If teardrops were a stairway
And memories were a lane;
We would walk all the way to heaven
And bring you home again.
Sadly missed by Mom and all your family.

IN MEMORIAM

ROGERS - In loving memory of a dear aunt, Helen, who passed away June 18, 1995.
Loving and kind in all her ways
Upright and just to the end of her days,
Sincere and kind in heart and mind,
What a beautiful memory she left behind.
Always in my heart and sadly missed
"Muggins"

ROGERS, Helen - In memory of a special sister, Helen, who passed away one year ago.
Dear Lord, please take a message
To our sister above,
Tell her how much we miss her
And give her all our love.
We do not need a special day
To bring her to our mind
The day we don't think of her
Is very hard to find.
Dear Lord, if there are roses in Heaven
Please pick a bunch with care,
Place them in both her arms,
And tell her we still care.
We can't forget you, not for a minute
Your smile, your laughter,
Your loving ways,
Your precious life, our precious days,
These memories we will hold so dear
We pray that God will hold you near,
Safe and warm and free of fear.
We miss you dearly. Things are just not the same without you Helen.
Tom and Barbara.

ROGERS - In loving memory of a dear wife, Helen Mae (Francis) who passed away June 18, 1995.
My heart still aches with sadness
My secret tears still flow,
For what it meant to lose you Helen
No one will ever know.
I miss you more than anyone knows
As each day passed the emptiness grows,
The tears I shed I can wipe away
But the ache in my heart will always stay;
No one knows the grief I bear
When I look around and you are not there.
To your resting place I visit
And place flowers there with care
But no one knows the heartache Helen
When I turn and leave you there.
When my life on earth is ended, Helen,
I pray with all my heart
To be with you forever, nevermore to part,
Dear Lord keep Helen in your loving care.
Sadly missed and always in my heart.
Husband Gordon
"I miss you Love"

IN MEMORIAM

ALTON, Leslie - In loving memory of a beloved father and grandfather, Leslie, who passed away on December 6, 1991.
What we would give if we could say
"Hello Dad" in the same old way.
To hear his voice and see him smile
To sit with him and chat a while.
So you who have a father,
Cherish him with care
For you'll never know the heart-ache
Until you see his empty chair.
Always loved and sadly missed by daughter Kelly, son-in-law Don, grandsons Shane and Nathan.

ALTON, Leslie - In loving memory of a beloved husband, Leslie, who passed away December 6, 1991.
Those we love must someday pass
Beyond our present sight
Must leave us and the world we know
Without their radiant light.
But we know that like a candle
Their lovely light will shine
To brighten up another place
More perfect - more divine
And in the realm of Heaven
Where they shine so warm and bright
Our loved ones live for evermore
In God's eternal light.
Sadly missed by his wife, Lillian.

PROCENKO, Michael - In loving memory of our dear son and brother taken from us suddenly June 23, 1978.
Our lives go on without you
But nothing is the same
Sad are the hearts that love you
Glad still, that you came.
So short was our time together
And silent are the tears that fall
But living our lives without you
Is the hardest part of all.
Forever in our hearts,
Mom, Dad and Lisa.

PROCENKO, Michael - In memory of our dear wee friend and neighbour lost to us June 23, 1978.
Only a memory of bygone days
And a sigh for a face unseen;
A constant feeling that God alone
Knows best what should have been.
